GRAIN AND PRODUCE MARKET

Speculators in Wheat Nonplussed at

Market Possibilities. CORN SHOWS GOOD ACTION

A Little Natural Heaviness Displayed at the Beginning of the Week, but Offset During the Latter Part.

The Chicago shorts in wheat were greatly alarmed last night as to what might develop in wheat today. The markets of the old world are all closed today. The trade feels that there must be a cleanup of the short interest next week, which has accumulated on the declining market of the last ten days. Near the close Thursday the market became have of offerings. The action was chiefly in the congested and oversold May contracts. The Liverpool market closed early Thursday morning and there will be nothing more from that quarter until next Tuesday. The English cable said an advance was checked by the prospect of heavy world's shipments and a larger percentage of wheat than usual was headed to the United Kingdom ports. News from the northwest was mixed and some of the big mills are closing down because of annual repairs. A trader from Minneapolis days the feeling in the cash wheat trade there is decidedly less bearish, very little whoat pressing for sale. It is hardly leasonable to expect that the present flattering crop outlook will continue for any length of time. Any change in the outlook will be on the size of busing diays here is a chance for a fighting market in wheat following the holidays here and abroad. Cash wheat was lagelige higher. Fairly good action was seen in the corn options this last week. A little natural heaviness was noted at the beginning of the week, but this was more than offerings of corn. The cash corn last week argenting the whole week Illino's, Ohio and lowa points reported more liberal offerings of corn. The cash corn last week argenting the whole week Illino's, Ohio and lowa points reported more liberal offerings of corn. The cash corn was seen in the cash corn last week. Argentine reported shipments of 272,000 bushels up to Thursday. In view of the great reserves traders think it will be difficult to sustain the advance in the late months. Cash oats were reported today.
